Introduction: Working in Progress

June it was a very important month for our activities. The web was restyled and new products have been put on the market. Now for the incoming months we will take the opportunity of the summer holidays to work hard in order to finish some items very close to the final release

Another important goal will be to further improve an already excellent quality trying to reduce prices and satisfying the customer at 200%.

This will be done following the next steps:

1. Upgrading our laboratory. For this scope it was procured a new facility, with a lot of machines, tools, electronic equipment etc, where all products will be designed, assembled, tested and shipped.

2. Providing several items in "Mounting KIT" version, permitting to save money and time and giving to yourself the possibility to enjoy with it.

3. Giving adequate and fully clear documentation over User Manual, our website, our Facebook Page ,our Twitter profile and, 737 Blog & Forums community ... and this Newsletter of course !!!

Most of these ideas and activities have been started and the works are in progress. This permit me to improve my skills, to finish my cockpit and to satisfy you with new products at low price

Let me finish this section with a special thanks to everybody for your support and for your interesting in my products and activities.

Coming Soon ...

Very soon will be available a new set of Backlighted Gauges including all Overhead Instruments and the Fully Operative Boeing 737NG Digital Clock.
